Lewis-Manning Hospice is Poole's voluntary hospice providing palliative care to over 600 local people each year living with cancer and other life-threatening illnesses. All our services are free. Our core services are:

Day hospice - run by clinical nurse specialists, offering palliative care including physiotherapy, advice on pain and symptom management, creative arts, aromatherapy and other holistic treatments.

Breathing clinic - for the relief of breathing difficulties, due to cancer of the lung.

Lymphoedema clinic - to treat the swelling of a limb caused by cancer or the treatment of cancer.

Each month it costs over £40,000 to provide our services, and this is after we have received 27% of our funding from the Local Health Authority. The majority of the remaining money is raised through the generosity of the local community which has supported us over the last 16 year via our four charity shops, furniture warehouse, Hospice Lottery and legacies.
